The April Magazine Number of The Outlook has a special decorative Easter Cover designed by Miss Grace Norton. It contains several illustrated features of particular interest and of special timeliness.

In "The Naval Defenses of the Nation," by Elbert F. Baldwin, a survey is made of the present condition of the United States Navy, of the additions which are now being made to it, and of its effective force. Many pictures accompany the article, including several photographs of ships and naval scenes, by Mr. G. E. Stonebridge, and two spirited naval scenes by the famous marine artist, Mr. Zogbaum.

"Getting About New York," by Earnest Ingersoll, is the second in a group of articles through which The Outlook is describing, in a popular way, some of the activities of the newly consolidated city of New York. It was preceded by an article in the March Magazine Number on "The American Fireman," by ex-Commissioner Sheffield, and will be followed by articles on "The Park System," by ex-Superintendent Parsons, on "The Police Department," by Jacob A. Riis, and on "The Post-Office and the People," by Mr. A. E. Palmer. A very striking double page drawing of a typical scene at a ferry—with hurrying crowds, bicyclists, elevated road, etc., etc.—has been drawn by Mr. Dan. Beard for this article. It has also several other pictures from photographs, showing in a picturesque way the various modern methods of New York travel.

The installment for the month of Dr. Hale's articles on "James Russell Lowell and His Friends" is even more readable than its predecessors. It takes up Lowell's early life as a man of letters, his associations and first achievements, and is throughout full of anecdote and pleasant reminiscence. The illustration includes a remarkable portrait of Hawthorne from an early crayon drawing by Eastman Johnson, and many other portraits, scenes, facsimiles, etc.

The Easter season is recognized in the April Magazine Number by an article on "Easters and Easters," by the Countess von Krockow; by a strong and entertaining story written by Sophie Swett, and by the usual editorial Easter talk; while the religious feeling of the season may also be said to have relation to a full-page reproduction of a very beautiful "Mother and Child" picture, by a Venetian artist, Roberto Ferruzzi.

In addition to articles already named there are in this number: A paper by Miss Anna N. Benjamin on "The Innuit of Alaska," with special relation to the introduction of reindeer into Alaska, and educational progress there, illustrated in part by curious by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.
